

Why should anyone commission an architect, when they could simply enlist the help of a competent builder?

Architects consider space like no other professional; they understand the needs of clients and translate dreams into reality in unique and carefully crafted ways; they avoid knee-jerk responses and do what is appropriate for the client and the context of the development.

Any building project is about more than just bricks and mortar. It is much more holistic and thoughtful than that – and that's where architects come in.

Clients of Chartered Practices can expect a high quality service from professionals working to a common set of standards including:

- Professional indemnity insurance appropriate for the work undertaken.
- Quality management system in operation.
- Health and safety policy in operation.
- Employment policy which addresses the principles of the RIBA policy statement.
- Continuing professional development for all staff.

RIBA Award Winner 200578-80 Derrigate

John McAslan + Partners
78 Derrigate is a fronted terraced house transformed by Charles Rennie Mackintosh in 1916 and painstakingly restored to its original condition. The even narrower terraced house next door has been completely rebuilt to function as an entrance lobby, circulation space and museum to service its neighbour. John McAslan + Partners led a multi-skilled team of historians, researchers and specialist consultants in producing a work of scholarly conservation. The scheme has been a popular and financial success.
