Wendy's Building Odyssey
RIBA North East Launch Lecture Series

The Royal Institute of British Architects (RIBA) in the North East is tomorrow launching a new series of its successful Architects on Architecture series and has invited three eminent practitioners to come to the region over the course of the next two months.

The first event at Northumbria University is on Tuesday 21st October and the guest speaker will be Sri Lankan-born Wendy de Silva.

Reflecting on her architectural influences Wendy said:

'I am interested in and influenced by everything around me, and am lucky enough to have a thorough understanding of two diverse cultures. This has given me the confidence to be open to the richness of the world's culture, architecture and materials and a brilliant excuse to follow my nose!'

Wendy immigrated to England in the 70's and studied at the Bartlett School of Architecture, (University College) London. She started her career as a trainee on a building site with John Laing Construction. Shortly after qualifying, she went back to Sri Lanka and worked with RIBA Royal Gold Medalist Geoffrey Bawa on the 'Ruhunu University' Project.

Most of her professional life has been spent in London where she has worked on a large variety of buildings including schools, retail, and housing and listed buildings. Wendy's most recent completed project is the award winning 'Cargo Fleet' which she worked on with her partner Stephen Chance. Wendy is also a director of Dransfield Owens de Silva, a Bermondsey based practice which is involved in a number of community health buildings, housing and mixed use regeneration projects in London as well as the Heartlands Big Lottery Regeneration Project in Cornwall.

Jon Jo Macnamara, Head of RIBA North East said:

‘We are delighted to be launching this year’s ‘Architects on Architecture’ lecture series and have a very impressive list of speakers. Once again this collaboration between RIBA and Newcastle and Northumbria Universities is proving very fruitful for our members and students.’
