Boom & Bust: 20 Top Tips for Survival

For most businesses it is not possible to avoid a recession, but it may be possible to survive. This course will explore 20 or more practical tips to choose from to allow Architects to assemble their own recession survival kit.

This event is for Architects who may not have been in this position before, or who cannot remember clearly from the last time, or may think it might be different this time - and might like to consider doing something about it.

There will be exercises. There will be debate. The intention is that you leave enthused to work up your own kit.

“One of the best seminars I have attended. This speaker really understood how architects’ practices are run and his advice was precisely targeted to their needs. We have already introduced some of his suggestions.”
Julian Owen, Julian Owen Associates

Speaker

Tom Taylor, Principal, dashdot

Tom Taylor is an experienced, front line Project Manager and an original Co-Founder of Buro Four, one of the most successful and respected management outfits in the UK. Tom is also the Principal of dashdot, a consulting management vehicle. Tom has been producing practical, original and entertaining proposals, booklets and documents for over thirty years, together with a variety of talks and courses. He is an active participant of APM (Association of Project Management) including Branch Chairman, Council Member, Executive Board Member, Chairman and Vice President.

This event qualifies for 3 hours CPD. RIBA members are required to complete 35 hours of CPD per year. 19.5 hours should come from the Core Curriculum. Within this, it is compulsory to study 2 hours in health and safety matters.
