RIBA South/South East Conservation Award for Architects 2010-2013

RIBA members are invited to submit projects at the time of completion for any of the four categories, though only one category will be judged per year. Submissions, so long as they meet the criteria put forth below, are accepted at any time leading up to the deadline for each of the four categories (see below).

The intention will be to reward excellence in a conservation work and to set out the winning project as an example to others. Therefore the work nominated should demonstrate adherence to well-established principles of conservation.
